Dwight HILDEBRANDT -

“I support active transportation such as walking and riding a bike to and from School. This is the way I grew up. The challenges at hand that I see are the road conditions the sidewalk conditions. They are full of trip hazards and bike hazards. I would work tirelessly to try and upgrade these. The main issue to resolving this is prudent fiscal management. We currently do not have the funds to replace these surfaces.

We do not even we have the funds to maintain them. If elected I will work tirelessly for a complete forensic audit. Every penny needs to be accounted for. Only when you know where the money is going can you start to turn off wasteful and duplicated spending.

I would push to allow all city departments to be allowed to save money and build up their own reserve funds. Currently if they do not spend their budget the next year the budget is reduced. After saving for a period of time each department could build up enough money where that money generates enough interest that the department could remove itself from city funds and be self-sufficient. This could one day eliminate most taxes...

With this in mind and prudent fiscal measures put in place we can build and maintain save, hazard free, active transportation surfaces.

In addition to the above snow clearing and slip hazard maintenance is a necessity, not a luxury. Not allowing snow to pile to heights where the snow piles at crosswalks hide children from the view of motorists while the children are trying to cross streets is a essential safety measure that has been forgotten and neglected.”
