

Walkabout Scavenger Hunt

The way that streets and neighbourhoods are designed can make them feel safe or not-so-safe for walking or biking. Where a sidewalk is, what an intersection looks like, or even where a cross-walk is located can make a big difference. Walk around your neighbourhood. Think about what you see, hear, and feel.

Fill in each of the boxes. You can write or draw a picture. This works great as a photography project too - if you've got a camera, take it with you and document your walk. If you have a camera, you could take photos too!

How you get to or from school	A place with lots of traffic	Your favourite spot
Something you notice on your walk	What walking or biking is like in the area	Something that makes you feel unsafe
Somewhere you feel unsafe	Something you like about the neighbourhood	Something you want to change in the community
